

Senior Recruitment Consultants & Managers

Tough times don't last, but tough people do. We are looking for experienced recruitment professionals to join HRM, to build on existing customer relationships and develop new customer opportunities.

You already know success in recruitment is about delivering a comprehensive service to your customers and your candidates. We simply believe the market will be captured by the brand that raises the bar in each area and genuinely differentiates in service levels to both.

We want to talk in confidence to experienced recruitment consultants and managers, who share this belief. To recruitment professionals with a passion for excellence, a commitment to service and a need for personal growth.

Like you, we recognise these are challenging times. In addition to your recruitment experience we want your resilience and ability to lead others by example.

We know what can be achieved. If you are one of the people we are looking for, you probably do too. Already you are a person with choices. We'd like to meet and share our strategic intent and our plan to achieve it. We'd like to present you with a tough decision.
